Hotel Sookie

Named for jazz musician Grant Green's song, Sookie Sookie, stylish Hotel Sookie is the latest addition to the MADEHO hotel group. Decorated by the Desjeux Delaye duo in a 1950s-style, every corner of this Haut Marais address is filled with paintings, ceramics, art books, and vinyl records that tell a vivid story.

The 31 rooms—from cozy singles to spacious doubles—come complete with vegan and ecological Terre de Mars bathroom products and provide a serene sanctuary from the buzzing gallery and boutique-lined neighborhood. Just minutes away, discover an international array of dining options at Marché des Enfants Rouges, Paris's oldest covered market. The organic breakfast at Sookie's coffee shop includes homemade waffles, granola, fresh fruit, avocado toast, and babka. Starting in September, seasonal lunch will also be served.
